

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

Character (or letter) information is extracted from source information, word information is extracted from the character information, and a database is created of the word information. Thereby, the created database is adapted for the technical field of the user or a field of interest to the user.

330743_1.DOC